Abstract

This webinar will provide an overview of VesselsValue, the methodology behind their automated live Market Values and the sectors they cover. Alex will then discuss current market trends for Bulkers, Tankers and Containers, including how they are performing versus historical averages and a forward look at what is expected for each sector over the coming months.

About the Speaker

In his role as Head of Singapore Office, Alex oversees the commercial and new business strategy for the APAC region for all VV services, as well as managing the growing office. An important part of his role is acting as brand ambassador for VV which includes speaking at and attending industry events.

Alex joined VesselsValue in 2018 and has worked across the New Business and Lead generation teams in VV's London and Isle of Wight offices. His work to date has focussed on the Maritime finance, ship management, and professional service sectors. Major projects he has led include developing a transaction monitoring tool for a major ship manager and creating a data feed enabling a lender to better regulate their live lending book through their own internal system. Alex looks forward to relocating to Singapore later this year.

Outside of the office Alex enjoys trying new cuisines, playing and watching sports and holidaying with friends and family.
